CTEP has two types of learning centers :

1) Self-Managed Learning Center (SLC)

In Cambodia, many schools divide their student body into two, each attending school for a half day. SLC provides after-school education ~ afternoon classes for public schools' morning class students, and morning classes for public schools' afternoon students. There are also lessons taught in the evening for all students.

In a SLC, CTEP designs and develops learning courses, hires and trains teachers, enrolls and supervises students, assesses educational need and evaluates performance.

Due to CTEP's limited manpower and financial resources, SLC can only be set up and managed in places within three hours' drive of Siem Reap, where CTEP Center is located. Therefore, CTEP cooperates with public schools and other NGOs to jointly set up and co-manage learning centers in public schools and/or other NGO classrooms.

2) Co-Managed Learning Center (CLC)

In CLCs, public schools/NGOs assign teachers and enroll students. CTEP provides computers, textbooks, teacher training and a teaching allowance. CTEP visits CLC regularly to supervise teachers, deliver exams to students and evaluate performance. CTEP also arranges exchange visits for CLC teachers and principals to visit Taiwan, and their Taiwan counterparts to visit Cambodia.

Of the 17 learning centers currently under CTEP management, 8 are SLC and 9 are CLC. Computer skills and/or English are taught in all learning centers. Chinese is taught only at CTEP Center in Siem Reap. Profiles of CTEP Learning Centers are illustrated in the following pages.
